

Guidelines for Authors – ERLACS

The journal Revista Europea de Estudios Latinoamericanos y del Caribe/ European Review of Latin American and Caribbean Studies (ERLACS) provides a forum for Latin Americanists who wish to publish in a European journal. ERLACS welcomes articles specifically pertaining to Latin America which reflect substantial empirical research and/or which are theoretically innovative with respect to major debates within the various fields of the social sciences or to problems of historical interpretation. The articles should appeal, and be comprehensible, to a broad readership. Unnecessary disciplinary jargon should be avoided as well as too advanced quantitative methods (such as econometric models).

It will consider papers in English or Spanish that represent original work, not previously published, nor submitted to any other publication at the same time. All articles are subject to independent peer review to determine acceptance for publication. The article will first be screened by the editorial board and then, if it is suitable for our journal, it will be sent to two impartial readers/referees who are specialized in the subject handled (peer review). Since we are dependent upon the evaluation of articles given freely by external referees for this journal, we hope that we will have their evaluation within two months. The acceptance procedure usually takes around four months.

Articles should not exceed 8000 words, including notes and bibliography. Avoid Latin abbreviations such as e.g., etc., cf., op. cit., i.e., f., ff., passim, ibid. We prefer the 'author-date' system inserted in the text and keyed to the bibliography, for example: (Bethell 1994, 121-25). Please keep notes to an absolute minimum. A bibliography should be given in full, following the notes, in alphabetical order of authors' surnames, for example:

Fernández Jilberto, Alex; and Barbara Hogenboom (eds) (2010) Latin America Facing China: South-South Relations beyond The Washington Consensus. Amsterdam: CEDLA Latin America Studies 98.

Comisión para el Esclarecimiento Histórico (CEH) (1999) Guatemala. Memory of Silence. Conclusions and Recommendations, online report, <http://shr.aas.org/guatemala/ceh/report/english/toc.html> (accessed 31 October 2012).

Klaufus, Christien (2012) 'The symbolic dimension of mobility: Architecture and social status in Ecuadorian informal settlements', International Journal of Urban and Regional Research 36(4): 689-705.

A very brief biographical paragraph describing the author's current affiliation and research interests, noting one or two recent publications, should accompany the manuscript, as well as a 200-word abstract of the article in Spanish and English. Articles accepted for publication may be copy-edited for clarity and conciseness. Authors will receive three copies of the issue in which their contribution appears.

The section called Exploraciones/Explorations is meant as a niche in which new themes are presented and new debates are stimulated. The contributions to this section should comply with normal academic requirements, and more importantly, should be innovative, thought-provoking and pointing toward new directions of research. Thus, contributions should be brief and incisive. They are shorter than regular articles, contain fewer references, and have clear and articulate conclusions (maximum 4000 words including notes and bibliography).

Authors receive three hardcopies of ERLACS and a PDF of their article. New articles are posted in PDF-format on the website in the INDEX following publication. A list of all published articles can be found on our website.

Send articles to: Ms Kathleen Willingham, Desk Editor CEDLA: K.Willingham@cedla.nl.

Book reviews are also welcome and should not exceed 800 words.

Send book reviews to: Dr Barbara Hogenboom, Book Review Editor CEDLA: B.B.Hogenboom@cedla.nl.

Visit our homepage at www.cedla.uva.nl