Instructions for authors

The journal Revista Europea de Estudios Latinoamericanos y del Caribe/European Review of Latin American and Caribbean Studies provides a forum for Latin Americanists who wish to publish in a European journal. It is published by CEDLA, a European inter-university centre that disseminates information on Latin American research.

The Review welcomes articles specifically pertaining to Latin America that reflect substantial empirical research and/or that are theoretically innovative with respect to major debates within the various fields of the social sciences or to problems of historical interpretation. The articles should appeal, and be comprehensible, to a broad readership. Unnecessary disciplinary jargon should be avoided as well as too advanced quantitative methods (such as econometric models).

It will consider papers in English or Spanish that represent original work, not previously published, nor submitted to any other publication at the same time.

All articles are subject to independent peer review to determine acceptance for publication.

Articles should not exceed 8000 words, including notes and bibliography. Do not use Latin abbreviations such as e.g., etc., cf., op. cit., i.e., f., ff., passim, ibid. Do not use colour in illustrations/charts. We prefer the 'author-date' system inserted in the text and keyed to the bibliography, for example: (Bethell 1994, 121-25). Otherwise, notes should be kept to an absolute minimum. A bibliography should be given in full, following the notes, in alphabetical order of authors' surnames, for example:

- Bethell, J. (1994) Cambridge History of Latin America. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press.
Comisión para el Esclarecimiento Histórico (CEH) (1999) Guatemala. Memory of Silence. Conclusions and Recommendations, online report, <http://shr.aaas.org/guatemala/ceh/report/english/toc.html> (accessed 20 August 2005).
Dijkstra, A. Geske (1999) 'Technocracy Questioned: Assessing Economic Stabilisation in Nicaragua', Bulletin of Latin American Research, Vol. 18, No. 3, pp. 295-310.

The section called 'Exploraciones/Explorations' is meant as a niche in the Revista Europea de Estudios Latinoamericanos y del Caribe/European Review of Latin American and Caribbean Studies in which new themes are presented and new debates are stimulated. The contributions to this section should comply with normal academic requirements, and more importantly, should be innovative, thought-provoking and pointing toward new directions of research. Thus, contributions should be brief and incisive. They are shorter than regular articles, contain a minimum of references, and have clear and articulate conclusions (maximum 4000 words including notes and bibliography).

Authors receive three hard copies of the European Review and an electronic version of the pages of their article in PDF-format. New articles are posted in PDF-format on the website in the Index one year following publication.

Send articles to: Ms. Kathleen Willingham, Desk Editor. E-mail K.Willingham@cedla.nl. A very brief biographical paragraph describing the author's current affiliation and research interests, giving one or two recent publications, should accompany the manuscript, as well as a 200-word abstract of the article in Spanish and English, and five keywords.

Book reviews are also welcome and should not exceed 800 words. Send to: Dr Barbara B. Hogenboom, Book Review Editor. E-mail B.B.Hogenboom@cedla.nl.
